GVMH Hospice Volunteer! Help Wanted

Why?? - "It gives our caregivers extra backup when they may not have anyone else" - Alexis, Home Services Social Worker

"It gives our patients someone else to socialize with other than family due to the circumstances being difficult" - Tina, Home Services Social Work Practicum Student

It's a great idea!

1. You may have thought about it but questioned it?
2. Yes you are qualified!
3. I'm here to help you make that decision!
4. It's so important to be educated about what Hospice does for patients and creates for families. Most of us know someone who has passed. In order for us to help, we need volunteers!
5. I would like to come talk to you about what we do, and what you can do.

Let's Learn about it!

We are honored to be able to accommodate patients and families. Giving a bit of your time will help support our neighbors in need. I would love to talk to your church, your pastor, group or yourself about what you need to get started! We can find time in your day. Join Me! I know you will be glad you did.

Learn to Lead:

Transitioning from Peer to Supervisor

In an attempt to harvest the internal talent of the organization, companies often promote high-performing employees to into management without the skills or preparation necessary to be effective managers.

Lacking the proper leadership training, these employees will be unequipped to handle the various challenges of this new role and the transition from "buddy" to "boss" will leave them anxious and stressed out.

Learn to Lead will set your managers up for success from the start. With the support of their direct supervisors, participants will leave this training with the tools and analytical skills needed to become leaders who create engaged, productive teams and drive greater results for your organization.

Practical skills to solve real workplace challenges:

- How to communicate more effectively as a new supervisor
- When to be flexible and when to stand firm
- Steps for building trust and gaining respect
- Resolving conflict without losing your mind
- Strategies for motivating others to achieve results
- Discipline – how to handle uncomfortable situations
- Managing time & setting priorities
- Developing a management style

Participants' direct supervisors will be expected to attend the kick-off hour in the first session as well as the wrap-up hour in the final session.

Virtual Leadership Program

- Supervisors & managers with less than one year experience
- Experienced supervisors with little or no formal supervisory training
- Aspiring/soon-to-be-promoted supervisors
